WHAT IS EXPECTED OF BIG BUSINESS.

One of the big banking houses of the east is a little alarmed over the progress this country is making toward state socialism, and has made this enumeration:

"Within a few days the oil industry has been placed under government control; buying for the government has been put in single hands; the coke industry has fallen under government regulation, and the shipping business has come under a dictatorship. Still further proposals are under consideration; one with a view to regulating security issues through the federal reserve board, limiting them to essentials; another the creation of a $500,000,000 banking corporation owned by the government with power to issue notes and make advances for financing corporations necessary for carrying on the war. Other incursions of government into business are evident in storage, dairy products, coffee, etc."

The author of the foregoing makes this statement:

"Complaints are multiplying in all directions, from labor as well as capital, of the loss of industrial freedom. It should be insisted upon that all commercial and industrial liberties withdrawn on account of war should be restored as promptly as possible when peace comes."

The reply to this will depend in great part on the spirit in which big business helps the government. If there is evidence of a deliberate attempt to cripple, then the people, in resentment, may inflict government ownership. Otherwise there may be no radical changes as a permanent part of our business life.

OUTRAGEOUS CONDUCT OF SENATORS.

Those senators who baited Secretary Baker today in a committee room in the national capitol, could not have been serving Germany to better purpose had they been in the employ of the Kaiser. Their questions were nagging and impertinent, in great part, and were directed at disclosing valuable war secrets, rather than exposing any weakness in our army preparations.

At one point in the cross-examination, Senator Weeks said he had received a letter citing an instance of an American officer being sent home from France by General Pershing for expressing pro-German sentiments. Now what has that to do with Secretary Baker's fitness to be at the head of the war department?

One of the senators objected to such questions being asked in a large auditorium filled with spectators, as they impugn that the army is reeking with treason. Then the Massachusetts senator, employing camouflage to hide his real motive, said he was not responsible for calling the secretary into a large auditorium, that the hearing should have been in the committee's own room. Having first assailed Secretary Baker in public, Weeks and senators of his kind would gag the secretary of war, or turn the hearing into a farce.

Secretary Baker has the right to be heard by the entire American people, and that right should be granted without according Senator Weeks or Senator Hitchcock the license to discredit our entire army, or offer endless information and encouragement to the enemy.

Our recalcitrant senators are not fooling America, but, to the contrary, are filling the people with indignation because of the evident tactics of hampering and harassing the men who in a distressing crisis are doing all in their power to uphold the military prestige of this nation.

AS TO THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

What effect is all this disturbance to traffic in the east, during the cold spell, having on business generally? Merchants are asking that question and are trying to peer into the future of trade.

A New York student of market conditions says business is moving along at high speed, with the exception of a slowing down in a few lines. But there is exceptional prosperity in the agricultural region, and throughout the great steel, textile and clothing fields the outlook is satisfactory. Many of the big industries have increased their assets tremendously by heavy expenditures for extensions and improvements out of earnings. The new foreign trade of the country would prove a sustaining prop to many of the industries, if peace came suddenly. The only drawbacks to the business situation are the shortage and high prices of commodities, the derangement of transportation and the coming of another big ban. But, we are told, these facts have been largely discounted, and after several months of liquidation the financial centers at last appear disposed to take more hopeful views of the outlook.

CERTAIN INDUSTRIES MUST BE PROTECTED.

Under old conditions the United States was in a position to conquer the world commercially, or at least to more than hold its own in competition with the manufacturing plants of other nations, except where unfair trade was resorted to and insidious methods employed. The strength of our industrial life caused a strong demand for free trade, with a fair field and no favorites, but the great war has opened our eyes to the danger of trusting too much to what on the surface seems to be fair trade.

Looking back, we find the German government was undermining every foreign industry which had a prospect of successful development in Germany. Secretly the essential basic industries, on which other great industries were built, were being fostered. For instance, the dye output was being controlled. Beet sugar plants were being stimulated. Fertilizer production was monopolized. High grade glass manufacture for lenses was held as a secret.

A great list of products could be enumerated, showing German scheming for a mastery of world commerce. When the war opened, we Americans suddenly found ourselves without many of the articles necessary to an undisturbed industrial progress, and for a time there was much uncertainty as to how we were to go on without potash, beet seed, glass, drugs, sugar, dyes and other innumerable German products. But American adaptability and inventive genius are clearing away our perplexities. All that is being accomplished is under the stimulus of war prices. When the war ends, what then?

An Ogden manufacturer, who is helping to fill the gap made by the breaking off of trade with Germany, has, in his opinion, given an answer to that question. He says American plants must be removed from the danger of a subtle undermining process of a crafty foreign competition. He presents this view:

"We are proceeding to manufacture potash. Our plans at present are not for the public, but eventually we expect to be doing big things. We are responding to our country's exigencies. When the war ends, what we shall have built up should not be open to attack from an unscrupulous competitor, resorting to cutthroat methods in an effort to once more regain the American field. My company will not ask for any more protection than is necessary to stabilize the industry. We shall not demand a pampering support, or anything more than a safeguard against unfair competition—nothing approaching privilege."

The Standard sees the wisdom of granting this protection, and of extending the same safeguards to the dye industries, to glass, to sugar, and every line of production in any degree open to fostered attack from abroad, unless there be a complete overturning of commercial relations after the war and all international commerce be placed on a higher plane of square dealing.

The world has glimpsed a vision
It shall not lose.
Not hatred nor derision,
May disabuse
The nations, wronged and wronging,
Mistaken, misunderstood,
Of their deep human longing
For brotherhood.

Love is the only healing,
Music that blends
All discords, light revealing
Foes as friends
New fires our youth enrapture
To a strife that shall not cease
Until their glad hearts capture
The Prince of Peace.

They shall return with singing,
Whether they come
In flesh or spirit, bringing
Their Prisoner home.
Courage and faith have bound him
Fast in a shining chain;
The blossomed thorn has crowned him,
Beauty from pain.

Goal of the toiling ages,
No longer far!
On through these battle rages
Leads the star.
At last for a decision
They fight in mortal feud,
Brute Force against the Vision
Of Brotherhood.

PEACE PARLEYS AGAIN BROKEN

Deadlock Reached on Question of Ukraine—Central Powers Refuse to Recognize New Delegates.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The negotiations at Brest-Litovsk have been broken off, the correspondent at Petrograd of the Exchange Telegraph company says he is informed.

Reports from Brest-Litovsk in the last few days indicated that a deadlock had been reached on the question of Ukraine. After the Ukrainian delegates had almost completed an agreement with the Germans and Austrians for a separate peace the Bolsheviks sent to Brest-Litovsk new delegates, who though they were the real representatives of Ukraine, the representatives of the central powers refused to recognize the new delegates, who represented the soldiers' and workmen's deputies of Ukraine, whereas the first delegation was selected by the Ukrainian rada.

This situation was considered at the crown council in Berlin on Monday after which the German-Austrian foreign ministers left for Brest-Litovsk.

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning

Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Let us live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, and look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet, how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the intestinal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick, or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, biliousness, stomach trouble; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing before breakfast.—Advertisement.

EAT BANANAS IS A NEW SLOGAN

Object of Honolulu Campaign Two-fold, to Use Surplus and Save Other Foods.

HONOLULU, T. H., Jan. 22.—(By mail)—"Eat bananas" is a slogan that is plastered all over Honolulu today. Dead walls, street car fenders and street car windows, the windows of stores, sign boards about the city—everywhere that a poster will stick, bronzes the injunction "Eat Bananas."

The object of the so-called banana campaign is two-fold—to get rid of the huge surplus of the fruit and reduce the consumption of other foods that have to be imported, or that may go toward the feeding of the army in France.

Bananas Going to Waste.

Since the government took over most of the big passenger and freight vessels that formerly plied between Honolulu and the mainland, shipping facilities for the bananas raised in Hawaii have been reduced to practically nothing. Thousands of bunches of the fruit are going to waste, it being impossible to move them.

To remedy as far as possible this condition, a committee of prominent business men of Honolulu was formed last week, whose object was to increase the eating of bananas by the local population. They became active at once and enlisted as their aids the Boy Scouts of the city. Since then the scouts have canvassed the city, taking orders for bunches of bananas from housewives and business men. Thousands of bunches were sold in this manner.

Yesterday was set aside as "banana day," and practically every business house in the city had a big bunch of bananas hanging in its doorway, from which those who would, might pluck and eat.

So long as there were shipping facilities, all the better fruit was sent to the coast, the local people having to content themselves with the smaller and less showy bananas.

PRODUCE!

He was terribly in love with the girl, and he was eloquent about it, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. If she hadn't been intensely inquisitive and practical and unidealistic, he could have got away with his blarney, he said, in part: "For you, I would sacrifice friends, ambition, honor, fortune, career—nay, more."

But here she interrupted him. She asked:

"Since when did you have all those lovely things?"

And he groaned and went out into the night.

CASE OF MUST.

"Our last cook stayed with us six months."

"What! Really?"

"Yes. She broke her leg in three places an hour after she arrived and the doctor wouldn't let her be moved."

FINAL TRIBUTE TO SULLIVAN

Great Pugilistic Champion Borne to Resting Place in Calvary Cemetery.

SCORES OF FRIENDS

Children, Men and Women From Every Walk of Life at Funeral.

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—Final tribute to a great champion was paid today when the body of John L. Sullivan was buried in Calvary cemetery. In the crowds that lined the snow-filled streets as the casket was borne from the home of Sullivan's sister, Mrs. Annie Lennon, to St. Paul's church, where the funeral mass was celebrated were scores of children bidding farewell to their big "pal," whose watchword was courage and who regaled them with stories of kings and people he had met.

All Walks of Life Represented.

At the funeral were men and women from every walk of life. Men and women of the temperance movement were there to testify to their regard for the man who boasted that his greatest victory was gained when he conquered drink. Many were there also whom the former champion had helped in their hours of need, while neighbors journeyed from his former home in Abington, where he died suddenly of heart disease last Saturday. Nor did the sporting fraternity forget their once great idol, and they came in numbers from far and near. The burial was in Calvary at Forest Hills beside the body of Sullivan's wife.

CENT HAS COME TO STAY IN WEST

Twenty-five Cent Coin, Small—Used in Early Days of California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5.—"The cent has come to stay." This seems to be the verdict of the merchants and store keepers of this city. One and two-cent newspapers and the cafeteria started the circulation of the humble copper piece. The war has added the final impetus to its use.

To the average easterner, who has always been used to seeing the cent in circulation, the foregoing may not be quite clear. In the early days of San Francisco no coin of a value of less than 25 cents ever was used or seen. Later, dimes and nickels began to appear but even the high school boy of today can remember when the copper penny was something of a curiosity.

Within the past four or five years, the cent piece has come more and more in evidence. It has become fully established in the department stores and cafeterias and now Uncle Sam is popularizing it through his thrift certificates. The thrift certificate increases one cent in value each month. It costs $4.13 this month. It will cost $4.14 in March. Incidentally, Uncle Sam has, by means thus, given the cent a dignity which it previously did not possess here. There was a prejudice against it which is said to be fast disappearing for the government has shown that the cent is as potent as the dollar in helping to win the war.

More than this, there is a demand for it and on various occasions the east has been asked to ship cent pieces west in order that the demand for them might be kept supplied. Business men generally have expressed the opinion that only by use of the cent could both the retailer and consumer do business on a sound economic basis.

It is new experience for San Franciscans but they have come to enjoy it if the demand for the copper pieces is any criterion.

FOUNTAIN PLACED IN THE THIRD WARD

A new sanitary drinking fountain will be installed in the amusement hall of the Third ward within a few days, probably in time for the dancing party to be given Friday evening. The new fountain has been purchased by the members of the ward and the cost of installing it has been raised through popular subscription.

The party Friday night is one of the regular winter series and all friends of the ward are cordially invited to attend.

TOO MUCH TO ASK.

"And I was walking along that lonely village street, and an awful man jumped out of a dark alley and kissed me."

"Heavens! What did you do?"

"I screamed and the man ran away. Then I went right straight to the village constable and demanded that he find the man and arrest him. And the constable said he would. He would have had a bloodhound that could trail any criminal to his lair."

"And did he?"

"No. The constable said I'd have to kiss the bloodhound, so that he could get the scent."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

PLAY ON WORDS.

"You are on the water wagon?"

"Yes."

"Nothing could induce you to get off?"

"Nothing could, but something might if you happen to have it."—Birmingham Age Herald.

Shake Off the Burden of Aching Kidneys

To get up every morning with a lame back, to suffer all day with sharp, darting pains, dizzy spells, headaches and annoying kidney irregularities, is a heavy burden that keeps you tired out and half-sick. It makes you nervous and short of temper. It puts you in danger of gravel, dropsy, heart trouble, hardening of the arteries and Bright's disease. Don't delay helping weak kidneys. Buy a box of Doan's Kidney Pills today. They are in use the world over, and have helped thousands.

These are Ogden People:

Chas. G. Rackham, 3751 Quincey Ave., says: "My back ached constantly and was so sore that I could hardly straighten after bending over. The kidney secretions were too free in passage and I was generally weak and run down. I had heard so much about Doan's Kidney Pills that I tried them and a few boxes cured me."

W. J. Blackwell, motorman, Chester St., says: "Because of the help Doan's Kidney Pills have given me, I surely think well of them. A couple of years ago, my kidneys were out of order. My back was weak and lame and there was a dull ache over my kidneys. I only used two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me."

KING REWARDS BRAVE CHILDREN

LONDON, Jan. 29.—(Correspondence).—In recognition of their courage in fighting off with their fists a cougar which attacked them, King George has awarded the Albert medal to two children of Cowichan Lake, Vancouver island. The children are Doreen Ashburnham, 11 years old, and Anthony Farrer, 8 years old. According to the account of the incident recorded in the official Gazette, it transpired as follows:

On the 23rd of September, 1916, the two children left their homes at Cowichan Lake for the purpose of catching their ponies and, when about half a mile from home, they were attacked by the cougar. They were almost upon the animal before they saw it crouching in a path at a corner. The cougar first sprang upon the little girl and she was knocked down with her face to the ground, the animal being at her back. The boy at once attacked the cougar with his fists and riding bridge, driving the animal off the girl. It then attacked him and his companion, getting to her feet, and to his rescue, fighting with clenched hands and bridge, even putting her arm into the cougar's mouth to try to prevent it from biting him. She succeeded in getting it off the boy. It then stood on its hindquarters and fought with her, but evidently was disturbed by some sound as it presently slunk away and ran under a log, when it was afterwards killed.

The cougar measured over seven feet from nose to tip of tail.
